Information to Post in the room:

What is Tay-Sachs Disease

One in 27 Ashkenazi Jews, French-Canadians and Cajuns are carriers

One in 50 Irish-Americans are carriers

One in 250 Sephardic Jews

One in 250 people in the general population are known to be carriers

There are more than 50 disorders that fall under the umbrella of Lysosomal Disease. As a whole, Lysosomal Disease affects approximately one in every 5000 individuals worldwide.

Tay-Sachs disease is a progressive neurological genetic disorder that appears in three forms: Classic Infantile, Juvenile and Late Onset or Chronic Tay-Sachs.

The possibility of passing on a genetic illness to your child is very real. Fatal diseases such as Tay-Sachs or Canavan occur most often in families with no prior history of the disease. That is because these genes can be passed through generations of carriers and it is not until two carriers partner that the risk of an affected child becomes a reality.

Tay-Sachs disease crosses all ethnic, geographic and socioeconomic boundaries, leaving no one immune.

A simple blood test can distinguish Tay-Sachs carriers from non-carriers.

Lysosomal Disease is not rare. In fact, at least once every 30 minutes, another baby is born with one of the degenerative disorders in the Lysosomal Disease family. It is a disease for which there is no cure.

Children affected with Lysosomal Disease often die at a young and unpredictable age, many within a few months or years of birth.

Please make sure you visit all three charity websites, and also visit Youtube and do a search for Tay-Sachs and Lysosomal watch the videos, also search for a video called Genetics 101 that will help you to understand more about these devastating diseases.
